

Keep Reading !

So many of our families have participated in our World Book Day Challenge Week, ending with our Book Swap in Nursery today, so all children can experience taking a 'new' book home.

Well done for supporting our focus on 'nurturing a love of reading' by exposing your children to a range of books this week, including hunting for characters, reading in unusual places or coming into school to share a story. You are helping develop your child as a future reader!

I will be issuing certificates next week to all those children who participated. Reading to your child is one of the most valuable things you can do. Please sustain this momentum by carrying on these reading habits at home!

5 Little Ducks....

Have you heard about our special visitors in school this week? We have taken care of some duck eggs and the children have experienced the phenomena of observing ducklings hatch from these. Both children, and staff, have been so excited!

This experience links to our curriculum outcome 'To care' so that children can develop a positive sense of self by taking care of living things.

It also provides a great opportunity for talking, and learning new vocabulary such as 'hatch' 'crack' 'down' and 'beak'.

We hope this will create a lasting memory for the children.

LOOK AT OUR LEARNING!

It's not just the children who learn at Kingswood; we believe in developing a professional culture of learning within our staff as well. We learnt some new techniques on Tuesday evening from a visiting artist, This will enable us to add features to our floorbooks, but also provided a moment of calm for our busy hardworking team.
